ART FOR McGOVERN

600 New Hampshire Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20037

Dear Friend,

BEAUTIFUL ILLUSIONS are wonderful in an artist. But not in the President of the United States. That's one of the important things that this election is all about: to see whether the American people want to believe well-oiled manipulations of the truth, or want to look at things as they are. And to change when they perceive error.

Richard Nixon says he is for peace. But there is no peace.

Richard Nixon says he is for prosperity. But there are 6,000,000 people out of work.

Richard Nixon says he is against inflation. But what was your grocery bill this week?

Richard Nixon says the welfare system is a mess. I agree. But I have ideas about how to clean up that mess, and he continues to veto every effort for reform offered by Congress without any firm suggestion of his own.

Richard Nixon says he is for honor. Even after the Watergate. Even after the grain-futures boondoggle.

And many people believe Richard Nixon, because they prefer to believe what he says rather than take a hard look at his actual record.

I, George McGovern, am trying to give the American people that hard look at four years of drift and well-tooled mediocrity. But that takes money. And this is one of the ways we are raising money for this campaign. I would personally appreciate your contribution to the campaign, your rational consideration of my programs, and your vote in November.

Sincerely yours,

George McGovern

P.S. The enclosed art brochure may surprise you. How can you sell art in black and white? Frankly, the cost of producing a sales letter which shows these prints in their museum quality would be prohibitive. We would rather spend the money on the campaign. Once you receive these prints, we know you will appreciate the quality and enjoy them with pride for years to come in your home.
